

As a 19 year old student, I use the Internet for just about everything in my everyday life. It is important to not only myself but billions of other individuals that use and are part of the internet. The Internet has flourished throughout my generation and has helped build us into the people we are today. Protecting and promoting the internet is part of our human right, each and every one of us is a product of the internet. The Internet was created to brake our limits, not create them. That being said, I am against any changes that may hinder me from using the internet to fullest of its potential. Having to pay for extra Internet Content would become Unaffordable and this will effect not only my life but many others. Please keep this in mind and thank you for your time.
